THANK YOU.

VALENTINE'S OFFICE WEEKEND

Our winter wonderland finally delivered—snow on the ground, cold in the air, and plenty of love to go around. To share a little warmth with our Rausch Creek sweethearts, we'll be serving free hot cocoa, coffee, and a sweet chocolate treat all next weekend in honor of Valentine's Day.
(Don't forget your thermos) 2/14-2/15 Enjoy, it's our treat!

February Shmebruary

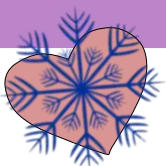

We're expecting frigid temperatures this weekend, and while the campground will remain open, conditions are going to be harsh. If you're planning to come out, please make sure you're fully prepared for the cold.

If you're heading our way, be sure to:

- Arrive in a 4-wheel-drive vehicle
- Bring a shovel or snowblower for your site
- Pack proper winter gear and extra layers
- Take it slow and use caution on all camp roads

The groundhog has spoken, and according to him, we're in for another six weeks of winter. Whether he's right or not, we'll find out soon enough. In the meantime, we're all riding out the cold, the snow, and whatever else winter decides to throw our way. Hopefully we're only a couple more weeks from turning the corner and shaking off the cabin fever as March brings the first hints of spring.

Stay warm, and hang in there — spring will get here eventually.

SUPER BOWL SUNDAY

Super Bowl Weekend is here, and sure, there's a football game happening... but let's be honest, most of us are really tuning in for the commercials.

A few big ones are already getting buzz — Budweiser is bringing back the Clydesdales (with a bald eagle cameo), Pringles has Sabrina Carpenter doing something with a "Pringle bouquet," and Dunkin' is rolling out a full 90s-nostalgia crew with Ben Affleck, Jennifer Aniston, Matt LeBlanc, and Jason Alexander. And that's just the start.

So whether you're watching for the game,
the halftime show, or the commercials that cost more than any one of us can dream of, enjoy the snacks and the chaos — it's not just the game that draws all the attention.
