As time goes by memories fade and it is so important we talk to our children about the tragic history that has been made. They are truly the ones that keep these memories alive. Watching the news this morning before dropping my kids off at school, they just stared quietly at the TV as the clips replayed the devastation of 9/11. I talked to them of my memories of this day and what happened to the innocent people who lost their lives and the loss for so many families and friends. One of our saddest days in this Nation, all due to hate.

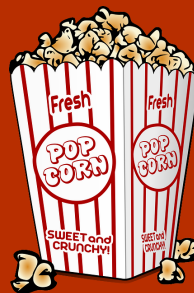

These are perfect opportunities to sit with our children, to teach them the love and respect they should have for their country and others.

Stop and take a moment of silence for all the lives lost, their families, and the ones still suffering from this day.
